Farmers! Mix Your Own Fertilizers, Do you know that home mixing of fertilizers has proved to be the most economical and satisfactory method of pro-maring fertilizers? It is now generally conceded by up-to-date agriculturists itself being an almost exact counterthat better results are obtained by buying the crude materials and mixing fertilizers adapted to the different crops you raise, and the varying conditions of the soil found on the farm.

If you will send as your name on a postal, with a request therefor, we will tain their edible qualities for upward send you free, postpaid, a number of formulas which were made up for us by the director of the Vermont experiment station, and which have been used by many Vermont farmers with excellent, success. GLASS HOUSES.

The Many Advantages That Are Claimed For Theme

"Within ten years people in this country will be building houses of glass which will excel in sanitary as pointments, beauty and durability an also low cost of maintenance any typ of structure of the present time. I other words, the American peop within ten years will be living in gian houses. They will thenceforth be us able to throw stones."

This was the interesting declaration made recently by Roger S. Pesse, on of the oldest glassmakers in the Uni ed States, a man who has taken a active part in all the improvement that have set the glass world fac it in line for the greatest developmen in its long history. By glass house Mr. Pense said be meant just wha Harness Shop by the Bridge, East Barre. he said - foundations of concrete which are now recognized as stand ard; the walls of wired glass, the cel ings and roofs of wired glass and th floors of tile, covered with a ligh sheeting of wood. Such a building will prove practically indestructible can be made of any set of colors de sired and requires no painting, no pr pering inside, will be sound proof molsture proof and fireproof.

Mr. Pease has planned a house that will be composed of glass and is going to have it finished in some color that will make it attractive, and such colors will be permanent.

The moment this idea is started, Mr. Pease declared, the public will be quick to see the value of the material. Its cheapness and reliability are understood. Glass, he said, is the most bonest and most easily understood material in the world. It is not mysterious, and people will not have to employ experts to see that the quality is right. The glass for the walls of houses need not be transparent, but dense, like slate or stone. It will, how ever, be hard and durable. The roofs can be of the same character of glass. It withstands beat and cold alike, and whatever patents may interfere with the cheapness of the material now are so nearly expired that it will be but a short time before these will be eliminated as a cost factor.-Pittaburg Gazette-Times.

Sacred Nuts. of Japan. Being very rich in oil, they burn with a hot, bluish flame and give off a peculiar odor, the fumes being supposed to rise as an acceptable incense to the gods. They grow under water and have a leaf like an American lily, the form of the nut part of an Asian buffalo's head, drooping horns and all. In the raw state they are hard and tasteless, but when cooked the flavor resembles that of boiled chestnuts. They are said to reof twenty years.

The Admirable Korean.

With all his languor, the Korean is a particularly agreeable person. He is multiplication of his misfortunes. He is the victim of his own good nature and is content to sit unconcernedly on his boundary fence and witness the robbery of his estates. It is a pleasure to visit Korea if only to meet the Korean bimself, says the Japan Weekly Chronicle, for he is the happy-golucky, good tempered simpleton who unconsciously contributes to the pleasure of others. Why Snow Is White?

The pure white luster of snow is due to the fact that all the elementary colors of light are blended together in the radiance thrown off from the surface | WARD 6:of the crystal. It is quite possible to examine the individual snow crystals in such a way as to detect these several colors before they are mingled together to constitute the compound impression of whiteness upon the eye. WARD 8:-The soft whiteness of the snow is also In some degree attributable to the large quantity of air entangled amid the frozen particles. Snow is composed of a great number of minute crystals, more than a thousand distinct forms of which have been enumerated by various observers. These crystals and prisms reflect all the compound rays of which white light con- W sists. Sheets of snow on the ground are known to reflect beautiful pink and blue tints under certain angles of supphine and to fling back so much light as to be Dainful to the eyes.
